

Do you know about the Victorian alcohol and other drug client charter?

In March 2011 the Department of Health and the Association of Participating Service Users released the Victorian alcohol and other drug (AOD) client charter.

The charter is based on the knowledge and experience of 160 AOD service users who participated in focus groups across Victoria. This was a democratic process that ensured the charter reflects the rights and responsibilities of people using services.

The charter outlines what you can expect as a person using AOD services and what responsibilities you have to yourself, other service users and your treatment provider. The charter also lists the responsibilities of AOD services in Victoria to provide respectful, safe, accessible and professional treatment services.
